United Game Tech plans stock exchange listing

Malta, March 29, 2017 – United Game Tech, a technology company and leading sports betting operator, is planning to list its shares on the over-the-counter market of the Berlin stock exchange in the short term. Before the backdrop of its growth path, the company would like to open itself to a broader group of shareholders and is planning further capital measures in the current fiscal year. The company had already carried out a successful capital increase in October 2016. As part of an oversubscribed private placement, United Game Tech had issued 500,000 new shares at that time at a price of EUR 2.00 per share to Family Offices and other institutional investors in Germany and in Switzerland and raised EUR 1,000,000.

“The planned listing is another step in the strategic development of our company. We see the stock exchange as a long-term source of capital for our projected growth,” says Alexander Zucker, CEO of United Game Tech.

United Game Tech offers retail and online sports betting via its subsidiaries under the digiBet and bancobet brands in Germany, Austria and Belgium. The proprietary software solution is also operated as a white-label solution under the bancobet brand by a locally regulated licensee in Romania.

The new, proprietary software platform of its premium brand digiBet was successfully launched in November 2016. It is geared to the future growth of the company, is fully scalable and equipped with several interesting innovations. It is also the basis for continuous innovations that are to be integrated at brief intervals. For 2017, United Game Tech, as a platform operator, will launch among others technical innovations in the areas of payment, processing of odds streams and mobile applications for its customers in sports betting and online gaming.

Over 1,000 terminals in over 300 points of sale are connected to the United Game Tech Group system.
